FOREWORD

1. The making of this book

This book owes its existence to a storm. On 18th January 2007, a hurricane by the name Kyrill caused heavy damage in Northern Germany – dropped trees, closed roads, interrupted railroad lines and much more. I had an evening appointment in Offenburg that day and drove there in the morning to avoid being on the road when the storm would hit. So what does a genealogist do with an empty afternoon? He goes to the archives. So did I and started to abstract the emigrants listed in the Offenburg Intelligencer.

Anyway, it took six more years to complete the evaluation of the various newspapers which were issued in the Ortenau region (whose main town is Offenburg). The newspaper published in Offenburg under various titles turned out a real bonanza for finding emigrants from that area. This mass of entries corresponded with the long time needed for a careful evaluation – one day in the library for one newspaper year in the early 1850s. In the 1860s, other newspapers were established in Kehl, Wolfach and Oberkirch, and many court notifications were published in those now. Another intelligencer had been published in Lahr since 1797, in the years 1816 to 1818 covering Offenburg district too. The year 1817 names more than 1000 persons from that region who intended to emigrate to America or elsewhere<sup>1</sup>.

At the beginning, the scope and range of this project were intended to reach to the districts of Rastatt and Ettlingen in the north. The amount of data turned out too large for one book, so I divided the stock into two volumes: the Ortenau region in the south and the region around Rastatt, which has no specific name, in the north.

The Ortenau is composed of Offenburg as the central town, the surrounding Rhine Valley Plain and the heights of Black Forest connected at the east; therefore this area reaches from the Rhine in the west to the Kniebis Pass at the narrow eastern border of the former Grandduchy of Baden. This was a largely rural region in 19th century except for a few towns. The inhabitants were predominantly Catholic except for some small Protestant regions such as the Hanau Country (Hanauer Land). Many emigrations occurred as early as in 18th century, mainly to Hungary, but also to America from some of the Protestant villages as well<sup>2</sup>. Except for Hacker's book, names of emigrants from the Ortenau region previously have been published only at the local level<sup>3</sup>.

The entries of the current book were collected to make use of the intelligencers and newspapers in Baden which are full of official advertisements about emigrants. Such advertisements are hard to find, however, as no indexes exist at all, or partially with just one such index for every year. From the beginning of this project, my intention was to publish the data in order to help those who only knew „Baden“ as a general locale find more precise origins of the emigrants in which they were interested.

All together, the entries in this book mainly should be used as hints as to where something might be found. The actual advertisements might include additional pieces of information and the pertaining archival records – if they still exist – even more.

The following volumes are in print now:

1. The Breisgau region

with the districts of Breisach, Emmendingen, Ettenheim, Freiburg, Hornberg (until 1857)<sup>1</sup>, Kenzingen, Staufen, St. Blasien (until 1844), Triberg (until 1858) and Waldkirch.

2. The Odenwald and Bauland regions

with the districts of Adelsheim, Boxberg, Buchen, Eberbach, Gerlachsheim, Krautheim, Mosbach, Tauberbischofsheim, Walldürn and Wertheim

3. The Ortenau region

with the districts of Achern (until 1864), Gengenbach, Haslach, Lahr, Oberkirch, Offenburg, Rheinbischofsheim and Wolfach.

4. The area around Rastatt

with the districts of Achern (from 1865), Baden-Baden, Bühl, Ettlingen, Gernsbach and Rastatt.

VORWORT

1. Die Vorgeschichte dieses Buches.

Dieses Buch verdankt sein Zustandekommen einem Sturm. Am 18. Januar 2007 wurden aus der nördlichen Hälfte Deutschlands gewaltige Schäden gemeldet, die der Orkan Kyrill angerichtet hatte – umgestürzte Bäume, gesperrte Straßen, unterbrochene Bahnstrecken und vieles mehr. Ich war an jenem Abend in Offenburg verabredet. Um nicht im Sturm unterwegs sein zu müssen, fuhr ich schon am Vormittag hin. Und was macht der Genealoge mit einem freien Nachmittag? Es geht ins Archiv. Das tat ich denn auch und begann, die im Offenburger Wochenblatt verzeichneten Auswanderer herauszuschreiben.

Es dauerte aber noch sechs weitere Jahre, bis die Auswertung der verschiedenen in der Ortenau erschienenen Zeitungen beendet war. Die in Offenburg unter wechselnden Titeln erschienene Zeitung erwies sich als Fundgrube für die Ermittlung von Auswanderern aus diesem Gebiet. Entsprechend zeitraubend war dann auch die Auswertung – ein Arbeitstag pro Jahrgang in den frühen 1850er Jahren. In den 1860er Jahren wurden in Kehl, Wolfach und Oberkirch eigene Zeitungen gegründet, und viele Bekanntmachungen gingen dorthin über. Daneben wurde in Lahr schon ab 1797 ein Wochenblatt herausgegeben, in den Jahren 1816 bis 1818 gemeinsam für Offenburg und Lahr. Hier finden sich im Jahr 1817 über 1000 Personen aus jener Region, die die Absicht hatten, nach Amerika und anderswohin auszuwandern<sup>10</sup>.

Ursprünglich sollte das Erfassungsgebiet bis zu den Ämtern Rastatt und Ettlingen reichen. Da der Umfang der Daten für einen Band zu groß wurde, habe ich den Bestand auf zwei Bände aufgeteilt: im Süden die Ortenau und im Norden die Gegend um Rastatt, für die es keinen eigenen Landschaftsnamen gibt.

Die Ortenau ist geprägt durch den Zentralort Offenburg, die umliegende Rheinebene und die östlich anschließenden Höhen des Schwarzwaldes. Der Bereich reicht somit vom Rhein bis zum Kniebis als östlicher Grenze des an dieser Stelle eher schmalen früheren Großherzogtums Baden. Im 19. Jhdt. war dies eine weitgehend ländliche Gegend mit Ausnahme einiger Städte. Die Einwohner sind zumeist katholisch, doch gibt es auch protestantische Regionen wie zum Beispiel das Hanauer Land. Bereits im 18. Jhdt. sind zahlreiche Auswanderungen nachweisbar, zumeist nach Ungarn, aus protestantischen Orten auch nach Amerika<sup>11</sup>. Außer der Arbeit von Hacker wurden Namen von Auswanderern bisher nur auf örtlicher Ebene veröffentlicht<sup>12</sup>.

Grundidee für das Sammeln der hier vorgelegten Einträge war der Umstand, daß die badischen Amtsblätter und Zeitungen voll von amtlichen Bekanntmachungen über Auswanderer sind. Solche Anzeigen sind allerdings schwer zu finden, weil es teils gar keine, teils nur jährliche Register gibt. Die Erfassung der Daten erfolgte von vornherein mit der Absicht einer Veröffentlichung. Diese soll es ermöglichen, die Herkunftsorte von Auswanderern zu ermitteln, von denen bislang nur bekannt war, daß sie aus Baden stammten.

Insgesamt sollen die hier veröffentlichten Listen aber nur als Hinweise verstanden werden, an welcher Stelle etwas zu finden ist. Die eigentlichen Anzeigen können durchaus noch weitere Angaben enthalten und die zugehörigen Akten – falls sie noch existieren – erst recht.

Folgende Bände über badische Auswanderer sind nun erhältlich:

1. Der Breisgau mit den Amtsbezirken Breisach, Emmendingen, Ettenheim, Freiburg, Hornberg (bis 1857), Kenzingen, Staufen, St. Blasien (bis 1844), Triberg (bis 1858) und Waldkirch.
2. Odenwald und Bauland mit den Amtsbezirken Adelsheim, Boxberg, Buchen, Eberbach, Gerlachsheim, Krautheim, Mosbach, Tauberbischofsheim, Walldürn und Wertheim
3. Die Ortenau mit den Amtsbezirken Achern (bis 1864), Gengenbach, Haslach, Lahr, Oberkirch, Offenburg, Rheinbischofsheim und Wolfach.
4. Die Gegend um Rastatt mit den Amtsbezirken Achern (ab 1865), Baden-Baden, Bühl, Ettlingen, Gernsbach und Rastatt.

Ausgewertet wurden jeweils die noch existierenden Zeitungen von deren Beginn bis zum Ende des Jahres 1871. Das Reichsgesetz vom 1. Juni 1870 über den Erwerb und den Verlust der Bundes- und Staatsangehörigkeit ließ nur noch militärische Hindernisse gegen eine Auswanderung zu, die Vornahme einer Schuldenliquidation und deren öffentliche Ankündigung mußten deswegen unterbleiben, da sie fortan als unzulässige Behinderung eines Wegzugs galten. Die noch verbleibenden Bekanntmachungen (Erbenaufrufe, Fahndung nach Wehrpflichtigen und anderes) dürften ab 1872 größtenteils in der Karlsruher Zeitung zu finden sein.

Die Listen erscheinen ganz bewußt in englischer Sprache, weil diese von der Mehrzahl der Leser verstanden wird, jedenfalls eher als deutsch. Außerdem können deutsche Interessenten die Anzeigen ja im Original nachlesen.
